PARAGRAPH: My Favorite Bengali Festival: Pahela Baishakh

“Pahela Baishakh” – refers to the first day of Bangla New Year. I do not know except the English any nation celebrate their own new year like this way. Everyday I have to lead a chained & routine life. So, it breaks the monotony. I go outside wearing “Punjabi” in the morning. My friends gather in Ramna Square. I meet with them, gossip and eat together at noon. It seems to me that, the whole Bangladesh has worn color dress. People come out, arrange colourful rally, and arrange cultural programs, which reflects the heritage. People in cities cannot see or enjoy the real colour of nature, which villagers can do. The most significant side of the day is, on that day we forget our religion, age, class or status. However, we have many festivals but I think it is the most colourful one.

PARAGRAPH: The Last Weeding party I Attend

It was 12 February of 2005. A weeding ceremony took place in Gulshan Club. As I had a class in my university, I reached lately. It was about half past 7. I found my relatives. Some of my friends of university accompanied me. The dinner was served at about 10 o'clock. I sit for dinner in first batch with my mother and sister. We enjoyed a lot. I also made some jokes with the guests. But the most amusing part of the ceremony was the entrance of the bride. We reached home at about 11:30. It was really a nice ceremony.
